THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Andover everywhere and always. And, but—the manly, straightforward, sober, patriotic New England Town.—PHILLIPS BROOKS.

$2.00 PER YEAR. ANDOVER, MASSACHUSETTS, OCTOBER 18, 1901. VOL. XV. NO. 1

BICKNELL BROS. CORNER.

When the Football Crank Is Ripe.

When the football stock is ripe and the boys are on their mettle;
When the politician rather shy begins his campaign lunges;
When Jack Frost gets in his work and the leaves turn brown and sere;
When the "tater" crop is planted and the "huskin'" bee is near;
When the chicken's on the limber and the pumpkin pie's a-flame;
When the farmer trades his cider and gives his neighbor some;
When this ball-game underwear begins to make one shake;
When your summer suit looks seedy and your hat is out of date;
When cool October weather has us sure cannot stem the fact
That farmers' hats and warmer clothes are just the thing exact;
Then, when our mind is filled with goods our mind is not at ease,
And somehow we do feel inspired to talk down stairs to these.

What was formerly the Florists and Gardeners' association held its annual gathering at the Metropolitan last evening. A fine turkey supper was served at 7 o'clock by Miss Holt to which the twelve gentlemen present did full justice. The club virtually disbanded at its last meeting but the members have decided to hold together and wait for brighter prospects in the future, so a corresponding secretary was chosen in the person of J. Harry Playdon. Meetings will be held in March and October, with an annual supper at about this time of the year.

Prof. George F. Wright addressed a large audience at the Free church last Sunday evening on his recent journey through China and Russia. Prof. Wright was on a geological expedition and barely escaped from China before the Boxer outbreak reached its most violent stage. His thrilling adventures, narrow escapes and hardships through which he and his party passed were most vividly portrayed. The audience was treated to descriptions of the brutality and careless regard for life held by the Chinese soldiers. A quartet consisting of Miss Scott, Mrs. J. Newton Cole, W. S. Rhodes and W. Scott, rendered the anthem "The King of Love" in a very pleasing manner. At the close of the address Prof. Wright held an informal reception and met and greeted many of his old parishioners.

A FIENDISH ATTACK.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame that he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters, which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at Bliss's Drug Store.

Waiting—In a Restaurant.

(Grand Rapids Press)

I gaily ordered celery and puree of green peas;
I've waited fifteen minutes, and have niether one of these;
'Tis so long since I ordered the fish I quite forget
What kind it was, but anyway I have-n't seen it yet.
A "prime sirloin of beef" would do, or slice of roasted pork,
But all I see before me is my plate and knife and fork.
How good it looks upon the card—the "curry of spring lamb!"
But I'd be glad to simply see a slice of cold boiled ham.
There are some other things to read, as "vermicelli cake".
And "macaroni au fromage," but if I had a steak,
Or just a piece of toasted bread, or tiny bit of cheese,
'Twould help me live while waiting for the "puree of green peas."
I sit here, silently and wan, and try to feast my eyes
On "apple cobbler—cream sauce" and several kinds of pies.
"Coffee" looks well when printed, and so does "lemon ice,"
But to see one thing materialize would be so very nice!
I have read the menu over from "consomme to tea,"
And sit here calmly waiting till the waitress waits on me.

The Soul's Farewell to the Body.

So we must part forever, and, although
I long have beat my wings and cried to go,
Free from your narrow limiting control,
Forth into space, the true home of the soul.

Yet now, yet now that hour is drawing near
I pause reluctant, finding you so dear.
All joys await me in the realm of God.
Must you, my comrade, molder in the sod?

I was your captive, yet you were my slave;
Your prisoner, yet obedience you gave
To all my earnest wishes and commands.
Now to the worm I leave those willing hands

That toiled for me or held the books I read;
Those feet that trod where'er I wished to tread,
Those arms that clasped my dear ones, and the breast
Oh which one loved and loving heart found rest;

Those lips through which my prayers to God have risen;
Those eyes that were the windows to my prison—
From these, all these, Death's Angel bids me sever.
Dear Comrade Body, fare thee well forever.

I go to my inheritance and go
With joy that only the freed soul can know,
Yet in my spirit wanderings I trust
I may sometimes pause near your sacred dust.

MOTORMAN KILLED

Cars Collide in the Fog Last Friday at Glen Forest.

One of the worst street railway accidents ever known in this vicinity occurred at "The Willows," on the Lowell line of the Boston & Northern road Friday morning just before 7 o'clock.

THE DEAD.

JAMES E. NEAGLE, of Lawrence, motorman.

THE INJURED.

ALBERT F. SCALES of Lowell, face cut.

MRS. ROSE McQUADE of Lowell, ankle wrenched and badly swollen, arm bruised and swollen.

ALICE McQUADE of Lowell, head cut, back strained.

KATE GILROY of Lowell, body bruised.

EDWARD CULLEN of Lowell, face and leg cut.

JAMES LOFTUS of North Andover, conductor, hand cut.

FRANK LACOURSE of Lawrence, conductor, bruised.

HENRY HART of Lawrence, motorman, face cut, body bruised.

Without a moment's warning the two cars crashed into each other, head on, one telescoping the other, pinning Motorman Neagle down, and cutting off both his legs, and throwing passengers in a heap. The car which Neagle was running was behind time and the heavy mist which hung over the track prevented all view of the other car. Neither motorman saw the other car until a second or two before the crash came and there was no time to make a move to avert the collision.

The cars in the accident were No. 84 in charge of Motorman Henry Hart and Conductor James Loftus, a single truck vestibule, and No. 142, a double truck vestibule, in charge of Motorman Neagle and Conductor Frank Lacourse. Car No. 84 was a regular which had left Lawrence for Lowell at 5.20 a. m and Lowell at 6.15 for Lawrence, being due at Lawrence again at 7 o'clock. Car 142 was a special which was to start on a regular trip after running to the Willows turnout. The car had been run down the Haverhill line as far as the Pentucket turnout and had returned to Lawrence nearly 20 minutes behind time.

The accident happened just a few hundred feet this side of the Willows, at a bend in the road beyond Glen Forest. Car 84 had passed the Willows turnout, Motorman Hart supposing, as the officials now say he had a right to do, that the special car would remain on the double track at Glen Forest and not try to reach the turnout. Neagle on the other hand supposed that he would be able to reach the turnout.

It was just about ten minutes of seven when the cars struck, the smaller car crushing in the vestibule of the larger. Motorman Hart was hurled against the side of his car and his face was cut and his body badly bruised, but he at once began the work of rescue working with a will with those who were trying to extricate Motorman Neagle, who had been jammed up against the step leading from the vestibule into the main car. That the man was terribly wounded was apparent to all but the full extent of his injuries were not revealed until he was pulled out from under the debris. Both legs had been cut off, one hanging by a shred and the blood was flowing in streams from his wounds. The ambulance in charge of Patrolmen Shea and Carey arrived on the scene early and the mortally wounded man was carried to the General hospital. He died soon after reaching the institution.

There were no passengers in car 142 but there were about a dozen in car 84, including five women. All were thrown in a heap on the floor and there was a general scramble to get out of the car, many getting bruised in this way. So were cut by flying pieces of glass, but none were so badly injured that they had to be removed to a hospital. Several had their injuries treated by physicians. One passenger, Inspector Bartlett of Lowell was standing on the rear platform, reading a newspaper, and knew nothing of the accident until he felt the force of the collision. He jumped out of the door and was none the worse for his experience. He resumed his duties as inspector of the asphalt on Hampshire street as soon as he reached this city.

Three Lowell women, Mrs. Rose McQuade, Alice McQuade and Kate Gilroy were on the car and they were all three slightly injured. They came to Lawrence to attend the funeral of Mrs. James McQuade, but were unable to do so although they reached the McQuade house at 66 Camden street. The funeral was at the church and they felt too much overcome to leave the house after they arrived. Mrs. McQuade's right ankle is badly swollen, and her left arm is bruised and swollen, the wrist being apparently strained. Alice McQuade has a slight cut on her head and she complains of injury to her back. Kate Gilroy is suffering from a bruised body.

The three women were seen by a Telegram reporter at 66 Camden street. In describing the accident Mrs. McQuade said:

"We were seated in the middle of the car on the north side. There were two women near us and several men, some near the rear door and some near the forward end. It was very foggy and we could see but a short distance from the car. The first I knew of the accident was the crash. We passengers were all piled together in a heap on the floor. The windows were broken and our car seemed to rise right up from the track. We scrambled to get up and trampled each other in our efforts to get out. The men ran right over us. We women finally reached the street and we went and sat down on the river side and cried. It was terrible to see the poor motorman in front of his car. The passengers who were able and the people who live near by worked like Trojans to get him out. I saw a clergyman there. I guess some one had seen that the motorman could not live and had called the priest. We waited there over an hour and were then brought to Lawrence in another car. They had six horses trying to separate the cars but they hadn't been able to when I left. Some of the passengers went back to Lowell, some walked to Lawrence. Many were more frightened than hurt, but I tell you it was an awful experience for us women and it will be some time before we get over it."

All three women were well along in years and the shock appeared to affect them greatly. They were attended by Dr. Magee.

Edward Cullen of Lowell, who was one of the passengers injured, returned to his home in Lowell. His face was badly cut and his leg also. As none of the injured were taken to hospitals it was very difficult to get a complete list of those who were hurt.

Supt. Nowell was early on the scene and he had everything possible done for the unfortunate motorman, the other employes and the passengers. The road officials are of the opinion that Neagle should have waited at Glen Forest and they attach no blame upon Motorman Hart for passing the Willows turnout.

Traffic was delayed for an hour or so and then the wrecked cars were removed and traffic resumed as usual.

The escape of Motorman Hart from death was miraculous, as he stood at his post when the crash came. Railroad men think that he would certainly have been killed if his car had been one of the heavy ones. As it was the small car which he was driving rose up and crushed in the vestibule of the large car, so that while he was thrown heavily against the side of his car he was not buried in debris as was Neagle.

The front of the big car was smashed into kindling wood, but the smaller car was not so badly damaged.

There is quite a bend at where the accident occurred but that probably had nothing to do with the catastrophe today as even if the track had been straight the fog would have prevented the motormen seeing the other car approaching.

Some of the passengers say that the cars were moving rapidly, but the railroad men all declare that both cars were going at reduced speed.

There were plenty of willing hands on the scene, and one rendered more assistance than Dr. A. Blood. People who live in the vicinity gave the free om of their homes to the injured passengers and assisted in other ways, procuring medicine and bandages for Motorman Neagle.

News of the accident cast a gloom over the fellow employes of the street railway men who were in it. Neagle was widely known and liked by all who knew him. Expressions of sympathy for Motorman Hart were heard on all sides and the pluck displayed was no more than was expected of him. Conductors Lacourse and Loftus are also well known and they have the sympathy of all. The former is a spare man.

THE NAGLE OBSEQUIES.

The last rites of earth were performed Monday morning over the body of the late James E. Neagle, the motorman who was killed in last Friday's terrible electric car accident on the Lowell road. Since the sad catastrophe the remains have lain at the family residence, 10 Cedar street, where they have been viewed by many sorrowing relatives and friends.

ASSUMES DUTIES.

David Bruce, the new superintendent of the Boston & Northern street railway, assumed control of the Haverhill division Tuesday. Mr. Bruce goes to Haverhill thoroughly equipped by experience in Seattle in street railroading. He is a young man of keen business acumen and is the son of Honorable Alexander B. Bruce of this city. Mr. Bruce will move his family to the city this week.

AT COUNTRY CLUB.

A fine exhibition of golf was seen on the links of the Merrimack Valley Country club Wednesday morning and afternoon when Gilbert Nichols of Boston, the crack professional player, went over the course with members of the local club. While in this city the visitor was the guest of Ralph Day.

In the forenoon Nichols and Day opposed L. D. Norton and McGrath, instructor of golf at the M. V. G. C. links, in a 4-ball foursome. The contest was a spirited one and the game ended with the former pair 3 up. They had gone over the course twice, 8 holes in all, in 81, while the latter pair had made it in 84. The play was for a beautiful water color painting, put up by L. D. Norton and it was presented to Mr. Nichols.

Mr. Nichols made his first round in 39 and his second in 42. This 39 was the best play of the day but it is no example of what he can do. Fate was against him yesterday and he was off his play, but he proposes to return to Lawrence in the near future when he will endeavor to establish a record for the course. He made one great achievement, however, by playing the "Ravine" in four. Bogey is 6 and yesterday's play of 4 is the lowest which has ever been made on this link.

In the afternoon, Nichols played the best ball of Day and McGrath, going over the course twice. In both instances Nichols was the winner, his scores being 41 and 42, respectively, and the contest closed with Nichols 2 up.

Nichols put up a fine game and he showed his strongest point to be in his driving. If fate favors him, some great playing and a good record for the course is expected of him when he returns to this city.

Harry R. Dow and L. D. Norton played their semi-finals for the Howe cup, given for the club championship Wednesday afternoon and the latter qualified for the final. The contestants played a nine hole course and Norton won by 2 up.

Paul Clay has already defeated G. N. Norton in the semi-finals for this cup, so the final will now be played by Mr. Clay and L. D. Norton. Great interest is taken in this contest and both men are to make a hard fight for the club championship.

The Greatest Argument.

It is a pleasure to recommend a valuable remedy. TARTARLITHINE is a remedy of sterling value in the treatment of chronic and muscular rheumatism, gout, sciatica, lumbago and rheumatism of the joints. Tartarlithine kills the cause of the disease, and the greatest argument in its favor is its past history. It has cured many cases that were considered hopeless. Over twenty million tablets have been sold. We have thousands of testimonials from grateful patients. Many physicians prescribe Tartarlithine. Send for free pamphlet.

L. E. B., Clifton Hotel, Ottawa, Ill., writes: "Last Sunday, April 5th, I was introduced to a citizen of this city who had not been able to raise his hand to his head for several weeks, on account of rheumatism. I recommended him to take Tartarlithine, and he called on me to-day (one week later), and told me that after taking Tartarlithine for only one week, the improvement in him was truly phenomenal. He was practically cured."

Baptists Meet in Lawrence.

At the new Wood Memorial chapel on Coolidge street, Carletonville, the Massachusetts Association of Free Baptist churches have been holding a semi-annual conference this week. At Wednesday's services there was a large attendance, the auditorium being filled at each occasion. The prayer and praise service was conducted by the Rev. Isaiah Pinkham of Lynn, followed by the business meeting of the conference. The following committee was appointed, Revs. A. L. Gerrish, Brockton, H. Lockhart, Chelsea, Deacon Young, Worcester. The report of the executive board was presented and accepted, and a committee on resolutions appointed consisting of the following: Revs. A. E. Wilson, Lowell, J. M. Remick, Haverhill, and A. L. Freeman, Boston.

The Rev. G. T. Griffin delivered an excellent conference sermon which was followed at twelve o'clock by a sumptuous dinner prepared by the following committee which comprises several of the ladies of the Ladies' Aid society of the new church: Mrs. F. E. Carleton, Mrs. Minor, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Dodson, Mrs. Pettingill, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Brownsword, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Rutter, Mrs. Herman wentworth and Mrs. Wilbur Carleton.

In the afternoon the ministers held their conference and considerable business was transacted. S. D. Millen of Lowell was licensed and will later be ordained into the ministry. The Rev. W. J. Twort of this city was appointed to deliver the 20th anniversary sermon at the annual convention which will be held next May.

The Woman's Missionary meeting in charge of Mrs. A. E. Wilson, president of the state society was very interesting. Miss Helen D. Newcome made a fine address on the "Work in India."

At 3:30 the Rev. A. Given, D. D. of Auburn R. I., delivered a very interesting and timely address. The executive board appropriated funds for needy churches of the conference. Supper was served at 5 o'clock. At 7.00 the Rev. H. Lockhart conducted the service of prayer and song. A quartet of the St. John's church rendered excellent musical selections. The sermon by the Rev. Stanley Durkee was of a strong and able character dealing with "The Charge of Life."

SHE DROPPED DEAD.

Mary Mullen, a widow about 60 years of age, dropped dead at her home in the rear of 98 Common street, Thursday. She was about the house at work when she suddenly fell to the floor. A physician was hastily summoned, but before his arrival she had expired. Assistant Medical Examiner Dow was called, and pronounced the death due to heart disease. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker Breen. Mrs. Mullen was a native of England and had been in this country for many years. She is survived by one daughter by a former marriage, Mary Ellen Cranshaw, with whom she was living. She had been subject to sinking spells in the past, due to heart disease.

The Story of a Woman's Suffering.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—When I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was suffering terribly. At times the pain was almost more than I could stand. My heart would nearly stop beating and I would get cold and numb.

"My husband thought many times I was dying and did not dare to leave me alone. I also suffered severely at times of menstruation.

"I had tried several doctors and they told me that they had done all that medicine could do. In the face of all this, and to the astonishment of my family and friends, your remedies cured me. I am now well and do the work for eight in the family. I feel very grateful for my recovered health, and constantly recommend your medicine."—MRS. CARRIE BELLVILLE, Ludington, Mich.

The record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is written in thousands of such letters as Mrs. Bellville's. When during its whole career of thirty years no physician has to our knowledge criticised this medicine adversely, and thousands are daily prescribing it in their practice, should you, who know less about medicine than they, say, "Oh, I do not believe it is any good"?

Mrs. Pinkham advises women free of charge. Her address is Lynn, Mass. No woman knows the truth about women's ills as thoroughly as Mrs. Pinkham, and no medicine in the world has done so much good as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

$5000 REWARD We have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, $5,000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission.—LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

Polo Next Week.

The polo situation is now settled to the extent that there will be two leagues in the field, or at least that the American will retain its original circuit.

The so-called national league refused to part with Brockton and Clinton, the only towns wanted by the major organization unless several "dead ones" said to be included in the minor organization's circuit were also taken in. The big league managers realized that Chelsea, Hudson and East Weymouth would be poor drawing cards on the road and declined to enlarge their circuit to that extent. No agreement was reached on the player question which now resolves itself into a free for all race for the best talent with odds on the American to land the star performers.

Brockton and Clinton are the only towns whose claims to players are recognized by the big league, and if, as reported the Hudson team is endeavoring to secure the Plymouth players, the minor organization is likely to see a raid made on a few of the best players in the Brockton and Clinton outfits.

The wise players don't need a telescope to see which league looks the best, even if the small towns do swell up and offer fancy prices.

There is a disposition on the part of the American to "scratch" for all time any players who desert their ranks, so that some of the youngsters will find themselves out in the cold when the "national" makes its balloon ascension, which it is pretty certain to do before the season is very far advanced.

The big league has already under its wing a bunch of star players whom the minor organization hasn't even a ghost of a show of talking business with, such as McGilloray, Mercer, Murtaugh, Roberts, Hayes and Burgess with Lewiston; McKay, Campbell, Cameron, Wiley, Whipple and Mallory with Portland; Cotter, Wodtke, Doherty and Starkie with Salem; Hipson, Miller and Woods of Plymouth; Jean, Lewis, Holderness and Tibbitts of Lowell, and Gavitt, Curtis and Devlin of Lawrence. To the latter list may also be added Bone, Canavan and Latious, who may also be seen in Lawrence uniforms.

The press of Boston is united for the American league, which also has strong support from the leading papers in every city in the circuit. The Times and Enterprise of Brockton are the only papers of any standing to which the "national" can look for encouragement.

The American league magnates are rapidly signing their players and the official roster is likely to be promulgated in a few days.

Secretary J. C. Morse of the American League Roller Polo Players' association has issued the following schedule for November:

Her Engagement Calendar.

(Chicago Post.)

A fine engagement calendar—the first she ever had—
Adorned her desk but recently, and made her true heart glad;
But when the entries she had made I chanced one day to see,
There was a similarity that greatly puzzled me.

For January first she had a most surprising whim,
And entered on the calendar no other word than "Jim."
And for the second day I found the entry was the same—
Indeed, the month was given to that solitary name.

I jumped to March, and there as well—
just as I really feared—
The same three letters, plainly traced, still on the page appeared;
In April, May and also June, in August and July,
Throughout the year, in writing this,
no day had she passed by.

She blushed when I demanded that she straightway let me know
The meaning of the entries that confused and puzzled so.
"I'm not a fickle damsel, sir, and so I dare," she said,
"To enter this engagement for the year that lies ahead.

"And he whose name I've jotted down
is true and good and bold;
His love has lasted full three weeks and never will grow cold.
Because of this devotion I've such confidence in him
That my engagement for the year—and more—will be to Jim."

UNREASONABLE.

"Look here!" angrily exclaimed the householder, pointing to a cigar stump that lay on the floor of the back porch. "That was the lump of ice left here yesterday morning!"

"Well," belligerently replied the iceman, "what did you expect to get for 15 cents? A box of perfectos?" — Exchange.

FOOTBALL.

Andover, 17; Williston, 0.

Good team play characterized the work of the Andover eleven in the first half of the game with Williston last Saturday afternoon. Every man played with a great deal of snap and ginger and got into each play. Another encouraging feature was the ability of Taylor to kick, a department of the game in which the academy eleven has been considered very weak. His punts were gotten off well in every instance but one, when Dutcher's poor passing was worse than usual, the ball attaining a good height and distance besides being hard to handle. Taylor's goal from the field, altho' an easy one, was rendered difficult by the fact that the ball was passed low and struck the ground before reaching him so that he had to stoop and pick it up before getting ready to kick.

There is still lots to be done, however, before Andover can be considered fairly strong. The men play too much of an individual game, several of the backs especially being inclined to shift for themselves, among them Mains and Scullin. The tendency to fumble has not yet been overcome nor an eagerness in the centre which often in Saturday's game brought penalties to Andover for offside playing or interference with the ball. Bliss, who played a portion of Saturday's game at right half, did not show up very well; he was too slow at starting and had difficulty at keeping his feet. The linesmen have a tendency to play high.

The ends played well. Clark was tried at left for the first time, doing good work. Watkins's sensational dodging, hurdling run after a kickoff was the prettiest thing seen on the campus this year.

While Williston's line looked heavy, it could not stop the attacks of the Andover forwards who played hard, fast ball. Gilbert at right tackle, did the kicking after Taylor went out in the second half. His punts were hard to handle as they were of the high spiral variety.

Andover's first two touchdowns came after about five minutes' play. The ball was regained on downs on the 20-yard line following the kickoff, and after plunges for five yards by Taylor and Kinney, the former was sent over for a touchdown. Arnold made the second one after a few line plays, Watkins having recovered the ball on Taylor's punt at Williston's 20-yard line. The next score came after an exchange of punts by which Andover benefitted on account of fumbling by Williston backs. The local eleven's advance was stopped on the opponent's 10-yard line and Taylor was asked to try a drop. Altho' the ball was passed low and rolled along the ground he picked it up and kicked a clean drop. This ended the scoring.

In the second half Williston played stronger and while Andover nearly scored several times, fumbles or offside playing prevented. Andover's goal was not threatened during the entire game.

The line-up:

ANDOVER.		WILLISTON.
Clark, Cates, l e		r e, Hagar
Kinney, l g		r g, Hemenway

Score: Andover 17; Williston 0. Touchdowns made by Taylor, Arnold. Goals from touchdowns: Taylor 2. Goal from the field: Taylor. Referee, Mr. Freeman of Andover. Umpire, Prof. Leach of Williston. Linesmen, Grant and Loss. Timekeeper, Chase. Time, 20 and 15 min. halves.

Newburyport A. C. 6; Andover 0.

Newburyport athletic association proved too good for Andover Wednesday afternoon, defeating the home eleven 6 to 0. The scoring was all done in the first three or four minutes of the playing time, but after that Newburyport did not very seriously threaten Andover's goal. The first touchdown was made by Pope in five rushes, one of 60 yards by Colby.

Only once did the home eleven have a chance to score, that a very poor one. On the third down, Taylor was signalled to try a goal from the 35-yard line, and was a little slow in getting his drop off so that a Newburyport man touched the ball, deflecting it to some extent.

The Newburypert team was composed of old college players, some from Brown, Tech., and Dartmouth. Hapgood, left tackle, a Brown man, made the All-American team during his college days. He showed himself a veritable Samson in running with the ball from his position. When tackled, he proved hard to down, even when two or three Andover men got hold of him together. Colby, right half back, made several long runs, aided by especially good interference. For men who have played together so little as the Newburyport eleven probably has, they had fine team play, and interference moving like clock work that was a stumbling block to Andover's ends and tackles. Lasley, right tackle for the visitors, played right end on Exeter last year.

Andover's defence was very weak. Chase, right tackle, being an easy proposition for Hapgood to negotiate. Big holes were torn in the line through which the N. A. C. backs plunged for long gains. Only at the centre did they find a stone wall. Kinney and Conrad took care of their side of the centre in good style, the former especially making some fine tackles. Taylor, as usual, played a good individual game, but is inclined to leave his interference in common with the other candidates for the back field. Humbird made a few good plunges, but could not get under way for the Newburyport men were through very quickly as a general thing, looking from a spectator's standpoint, to be offside a great deal of the time. Watkins, at end, did not do as well as usual, allowing himself to be boxed repeatedly. Gilbert, who played full back, is new to the position, and as yet not very good. He will have to learn how to tackle, as he does not leave his feet and dive at his man as he should. Dutcher and Thompson played well, but Clark, at left end, missed several tackles he should have made. The same fault and fumbling might also be laid at Sumner's door. Neither Gilbert nor Taylor kicked well, their punts going only a short distance and not very high.

Kinney ran with the ball strongly when tried, and Taylor, with the assistance of Kinney, made several good gains, losing as much more on succeeding plays, however, by not following his interference.

The home eleven received valuable experience from the game in the advantages to be derived from team play and fast, hard football.

The score:

The Tigers of Andover, better known as the Young Andovers, won their first football game against the Riversides on the Grammar school grounds last week.

The Riversides kicked off to the Tigers. Maloney of the Tigers, got the ball and made a 40-yard run and was tackled at the 20-yard line. In the fourth rush the Tigers put the ball over the line for a touchdown. The score at the end of the first half was 5 to 0.

In the second half after the Tigers kicked off, the Riversides could not gain a yard. The final score was 15 to 0.

COUNTY NEWS.

One of the oldest couples in West Newbury, in a town noted for its old people, are Stephen Brown and his estimable wife, both of whom have passed fourscore years. Mr. Brown was born in Amesbury, Mass., Oct. 13, 1814, and therefore is 87 years old. Remarkable to say he works at his trade of shoemaking every day. He moved to West Newbury when nine years of age, and has made this town his home since.

Lucian Harwood, 19 years old, an electrician, was instantly killed by an electric shock at the river works of the General electric company at Lynn Monday night. He was engaged in trimming a lamp in the works when he placed his hand on a live wire carrying about 1500 volts. Death was instantaneous. Physicians worked over the body for an hour. Harwood came from Maynard a short time ago.

In the first district court, Dennis Henneberry of Salem, charged with larceny from the summer residence of James Means in Manchester, waived examination and was held in $1500 for the grand jury. Several weeks ago the residence of Mr. Means at Manchester was burned by the explosion of acetyline gas. It contained a large amount of old silverware, jewelry and other valuables of which some was recovered from the ruins. Henneberry was employed as coachman by Mr. Means and as much of the silver and jewelry was not found the place where Mr. Henneberry has stopped since he left the employ of Mr. Means was searched and a considerable amount of the missing property discovered.

Six civil suits for damages aggregating $16,000 have been brought by Haverhill parties. Miss Rose M. Alby sued Frank C. Sheehan for $2000 in an action of tort for alleged defamation of character, and she also brought another suit of the same character against Minnie Sheehan in the same sum. Viola A. Brackett instituted a suit against the Boston and Northern street railway company in an action of tort for $2000, she alleging injuries received while attempting to get on an electric car, the latter starting throwing her off, and personal injuries resulting. These three writs are entered at the October sitting of the superior court. Eliza H. Brackett has brought suit against the Boston & Northern street railway company in an action of tort for personal injuries said to have been received while a car was starting. The suit is for $5000. Mabel L. Durgin has sued the Boston & Northern street railway company for $3000 for alleged injuries received in a collision some time ago. Samuel E. Wilbur has sued the firm of Knipe Bros. shoe manufacturers, in an action of contract, he alleging that he was discharged from the factory before his contract had expired. The sum named is said $2000. The last three suits will be entered at the November sitting of the superior court.

Aching Joints

In the fingers, toes, knees, and other parts of the body, are joints that are inflamed and swollen by rheumatism—that acid condition of the blood which affects the muscles also.

Sufferers dread to move, especially after sitting or lying long, and their condition is commonly worse in wet weather.

"It has been a long time since we have been without Hood's Sarsaparilla. My father thinks he could not do without it. He has been troubled with rheumatism since he was a boy. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine he can take that will enable him to take his place in the field." MISS ADA DOTY, Sidney, Iowa.

The Salem common council held the warmest session of the year Monday night, the subject under discussion being the city treasurership. Some two months ago the bond company which furnished security for the city treasurer put extra restrictions upon the city, and these not being met the company cancelled its bond. Since that time the treasurer has been serving without bonds. Tonight the members of the council tried to place the responsibility. Some charged it to the mayor, others to the city council, and still others said the treasurer had no right to serve at all without bonds. Councilman Coolidge presented a resolution removing Treas. Newell from office. This was warmly discussed for an hour or so, during which time Councilman H. H. Merrill charged the friends of the city treasurer with having tobbied to keep the election off this year. Councilman Cashman responded warmly and charged that Merrill lied. The resolution was then voted down and two proposed ordinances in regard to the city treasurer were also killed. The council then voted to hold a joint conference next Tuesday evening to elect a treasurer.

"Most housekeepers," complained a disgruntled man recently, "seem to think that stale or over-brewed tea answers perfectly to flavor a glass of iced tea. It certainly does not for my taste. I want a choice brand, freshly made, and poured over cracked ice while hot, with a thin slice of lemon added, to produce the cooling tea drink that I can enjoy."

Few women have ever been known by four different names, though married but once. Such may be Lady Curzon's distinction. She started life as Miss Mary Leiter; by marriage she became Mrs. G. N. Curzon, the Lady Curzon of Kedleston. Upon the death of her father-in-law she will become Lady Scarsdale.

Next Monday's Meeting.

The special town meeting for next Monday evening promises to bring out some interesting discussion, judging from the preliminary efforts along that line. From our own experience it would seem to be a fruitful theme for discussion that the Selectmen have provided in their brief call. At first blush it seemed very clear that the plan for a special sewer and for immediate construction was a very wise one, but more careful consideration brings out many phases which need thought and study.

A correspondent has drawn attention to several of the difficulties to be considered, and others readily present themselves when the subject is all gone over. It is interesting to learn in an interview with the Selectmen, that they themselves are not fixed upon any definite course to pursue, their call for a town meeting coming solely from the desire that the town should take upon itself the responsibility for action or rest.

There seems to be no question about the necessity of rebuilding the west side of Main street, and to properly drain the entire street is just as necessary. The one great argument for doing this work at once is the fact that the town has an expensive equipment in its street department, ready for work, but unable to do work because the funds to pay laborers are exhausted. The arguments against the work being done now, are the lateness of the season, the doubt as to the plan proposed, the very strong and general prejudice against appropriating money at special meetings.

The issue for next Monday evening seems very clearly to be whether there is any exigency sufficiently urgent at this time to offset the many arguments that may be raised against action. The selectmen are wise in letting the citizens at large pass judgment upon this question.

Editorial Cinders.

It is interesting to note that the lovers of trees are very much divided upon the question of retaining the large elm tree on Main street, which stands out into the sidewalk in front of the old Richardson house. The owners of the property favor its removal, as do many others who see the improvement being worked out on Main street. The Selectmen desire to save it if possible, but there seems to be no question that its retention means a serious marring to the street at this point.

We respectfully refer the following to Col. Woodward, the president of the Reading street railway. An Andover lady advises us that a Reading conductor declined to give her a transfer to the B. & M. station in Reading saying that transfers were only for those who boarded the cars in Reading. The president of the Reading road was the Townsman's authority for the announcement a few weeks ago that Andover people would be enabled to ride from Andover square to the Reading depot for ten cents by securing a transfer in Reading. Does the conductor need further instruction, or will the Reading president explain?

From "Bird Lore."

"The Birds of Andover." Prepared by Howard I. Ford. Published by the School Department. The Andover [Mass.] Press. 1900. 12mo. 19 pages.

This little pamphlet was prepared for the use of the "teachers and pupils in the Andover schools," and, the prefatory note further states, its "chief aim is to give information of local value which cannot be found in other handbooks." Having so clearly in mind the principal office of a local list, we are not surprised to find that the author has succeeded in presenting his facts in a definite, detailed, and still condensed manner.

The form adopted, a ruled page with the bird's name at the left and annotations in succeeding columns and with blanks for subsequent records, admits of the presentation of a large amount of information in a small space and consequently at a small cost, and we commend it, with the substance of the list itself, to every one having in mind the preparation of local lists for students.—F. M. C.

Chief William L. Frye and aunt, Mrs William B. Allen, are attending the Hayes trial at Litchfield, Conn. John T. Hayes was at one time an inmate of the town farm here and at that time was under the charge of Mrs. William B. Allen, whose husband was superintendent of the farm. They will both testify as regards the family.

NEW SEMINARY PROFESSORS.

Charles O. Day and John W. Platner Inducted into Office Last Friday Evening.

The inauguration of Charles Orrin Day as Bartlet professor of practical theology and John Winthrop Platner, formerly of Harvard university, as Taylor professor of Church history, took place at the Seminary Chapel last Friday evening in the presence of a large number of invited guests, including many residents of Andover.

Professor George F. Moore, formerly president of the Seminary, acted as presiding officer. The two professors were formally inducted into office by Hon. Robert R. Bishop of Newton Centre, president of the board of trustees.

Very eloquent prayers were offered by Prof. Edward Y. Hincks and Prof. Egbert C. Smyth. The scripture lesson was read by Prof. William H. Ryder and several hymns were sung.

President William J. Tucker, D. D., of Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., who was to give the greeting from the colleges, sent a telegram at the last moment expressing regret that he should be unable to be present. Rev. Alexander McKenzie, D. D., of Cambridge, who was at his best, delivered a most eloquent and effective greeting from the churches. The burden of his plea was for better preaching, urging that there be a rise of pulpit power in the land. He called especial attention to the desirability of the delivery of sermons with a force adequate to the message to be delivered. Dr. McKenzie inspired the audience with reminiscences of Drs. Park and Phelps and others, masters in the past.

Prof. Day gave an address upon the essential factors in the adaptation of the minister to his work.

The trend of theological education is seen in the broadening conception of the work of the chair of practical theology. Adaptation is the keynote for nature progress, for all mechanics, for educational theories, for historic success. It must have special meaning when the work of the minister is considered. At this point are made the great mistakes. They are misfits. We need, therefore, an adequate conception of what adaptation is. It must be a vital connection with permanent forces. It must include a grasp upon the underlying simplicity beneath apparent complexity, and must deal with essential man. It will therefore go back for a statement to elements which are proven. One word—faith—sums up the thought in the Epistle to the Hebrews; but that faith was spiritual grasp, involving all the powers and dealing with the several constituents of life.

Three factors at least are essential: a gospel to preach, a knowledge of human nature, and a personality mastered and communicable. The first brings authority and confidence. The second includes knowledge of type, analysis of psychological and moral laws, comprehension of social psychology and movements. The last means self-mastery, thought mastery, art mastery, and reaches as its climax the ministerial conception of the ministry. By force of these factors the pulpit of the past has stood. By them that of today must be vindicated. Andover Seminary, true to her traditions, must stand or fall by none others.

Professor Platner spoke upon "The value of Church history in theological education." He declared his allegiance to that theory of ministerial education which would insist upon the study of the Bible, Church history, doctrinal theology and homiletics as the essential basis of all sound preparation for the work of the Christian ministry. In regard to Church history in particular, the minister should know about the work and results, the methods and experience of Christian missions. He should also be familiar with church forms of polity, organization and government not our own. He should have a thorough knowledge of the historical conditions under which creeds and confessions of faith have grown up, thus to estimate and understand them rightly. So, forms of worship, rites and ceremonies, as they are symbolic of the spirit and ideals of Christians, and have had powerful influence, should be held important. A comprehensive study of Church history, rather than that of special epochs, must give to the minister the broadest possible outlook over the organized progress of God's kingdom on earth.

Social Evening at Free Church.

Last Friday evening the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Free church held the first social of the season and one that was especially successful. The entire absence of all stiffness was the great point of recommendation for the affair.

As special guests of the evening were members of the Ballardvale Christian Endeavor society which had been invited to be present. They were given an extremely pleasant evening by the Free church Endeavorers. In all, there was a very good attendance at the sociable, and everyone enjoyed each minute of the evening, if looks and actions may be trusted.

The evening began with various games, including matching slips to find partners, and in guessing what were the advertisements at the front of the vestry on the curtain. Thomes' full orchestra rendered music thoughout the evening, playing delightfully, well known airs and popular songs. The solo on the piccolo by Edward R. Foster received well merited applause and he kindly responded with an encore.

"Cobwebs" by Kowen, was sung by a double quartette composed of Misses Mary Scott, Alice S. Coutts, Mary L. Coutts and Mrs. J. Newton Cole, and W. S. Rhodes, William Scott, G. A. Christie and W. M. Coutts. Miss Agnes McIntire of the Ballardvale society, and Miss Tucker gave readings.

Other games were played and refreshments served before the people present left for their several homes.

The committee in charge consisted of Alexander T. Dundas, chairman, Miss Addie Cox, Miss Grace Leslie, Miss Alice Leslie and David L. Coutts.

Fall dress-goods arriving daily at Farr's Remnant Store, 38 Appleton street, Lawrence.

Workmen have employed several evenings during the past week in removing portions of the ledge at the terminus of the Reading line on the Hill, thus giving a wider and safer place for the transfer of passengers from one line to the other. The interior of the waiting room has been painted and new lights put in.

The Coming Fair.

Next week Thursday and Friday are the days set apart for the annual Grange fair, which seems likely this year to rival any of those of the past. Not only in the salable articles, guessing contests and the like will the attendants be well suited, but the program also is one of more than passing interest.

On Thursday evening, Miss Ada Belle Crockett will interpret the "Language of the Flag." A good deal is contained in those few words and it is positive that those who have had the pleasure of seeing Miss Crockett will not go away unsatisfied nor unmoved.

The "Language of the Flag" is a series of emblematic flag and sword postures, each illustrating some phase of patriotic devotion or sacrifice. Beautiful lighting effects and drapery background, with flashing sword and graceful posing, to the accompaniment of stirring music, all unite in pleasing mind, sight, and hearing.

Miss Crockett and her interpretation has been highly and enthusiastically spoken of wherever she has been, so that she comes to Andover well vouched for as a splendid entertainer.

On Friday night, the Andover orchestra will hold forth, needless to say, to the edification of all who may be present. The orchestra and its work is too well known to require particular mention.

Regarding Prof. Moore's Loss to Andover.

Editorially, the Congregationalist makes the following comments regarding Prof. Moore's acceptance of an invitation to fill a chair in the Harvard Divinity school, and his consequent loss to Andover:

"The announcement made this week that Prof. George F. Moore of Andover seminary has accepted an invitation to become professor in Harvard Divinity school will bring regret to the friends of Andover. His eminence in his department has been unquestioned, and by his work as professor and president of the faculty and as productive scholar he has earned the gratitude and admiration of his colleagues and the trustees. The opportunity which has drawn him away from his position at Andover, a position entirely congenial to him, is an interesting one. While continuing to teach his own subject of the Old Testament and Semitic learning, he is also in charge of the study in the Divinity school of the comparative history of religions. This work is to be considerably expanded, and his first task will be so to organize this study as to use to the full resources of technical scholarship in the various religions which the university faculty already possess. For Andover the loss of this eminent scholar is a serious one, but the trustees have already taken steps to fill the vacancy. Professor Moore's work at Harvard will begin in February, 1902, but he will continue his chief courses at Andover through the academic year, and there will be no interruption to the work of the seminary in the Old Testament department. It is a satisfaction to note that Professor Moore's services to the Congregational denomination will be as great and important as they have ever been. His presence at Harvard means a force for evangelical religion in the university which cannot fail to have a deep and fruitful working at that great center of influence. And that in particular the subject of comparative religion, in which the popular mind has so often been led astray by superficial cavilers at Christianity, should be put at Cambridge into the hands of so sane and vigorous an evangelical theologian and so true a friend of Christian missions as Professor Moore is a cause for profound thankfulness.

Meeting of Ladies' Benevolent Society.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Free church was held in the vestry yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. J. Newton Cole, in the chair. The meeting opened with the reading of the scripture and prayer.

Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer of the home missionary department, the superintendents of the foreign department, of the Whatsoever society and of the Mothers' meetings.

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Mrs. J. Newton Cole; vice-president, Mrs. Stephen Jackson; secretary, Miss Ada Buchan; treasurer, Miss Agnes F. Smith; directresses, Mrs. Henry A. Russell, Mrs. David Lindsay, Mrs. Charles Hussey, Mrs. John W. Richardson, Mrs. Joshua Paine and Mrs. James Anderson.

Superintendent of the Foreign department, Mrs F. A. Wilson; asst. supt., Mrs. Herbert Goff.

Superintendent of the Mothers' meeting, Mrs. F. A. Wilson; asst. supt., Miss Gertrude Jackson.

Superintendent of the Whatsoever society, Mrs. Fred B. Goff; asst. supt., Mrs. William Faulkner.

The gentlemen were present in the evening when tea was served, games and a general good time enjoyed.

FALSE ALARMS.

Department Decides to Answer Only Second Signal From Several Boxes.

Once more there seems to be an epidemic of false alarms which as usual, and probably rightfully so, are attributed to the Academy boys. Every year recently, there has been more or less ringing in of the fire alarm when there was no occasion for it, the majority of the boxes pulled being those near the top of the hill.

With good reason, therefore, the odium of this malicious mischief, (for it can be called nothing else), is laid at the door of academy students. Two years ago two academy boys were apprehended by the police on the suspicion of having rung in an alarm. Altho' there was good proof that they were guilty, through the leniency of the judge and on account of the suppression of certain evidence which would have gone a long way to convict, the boys were liberated. Not appreciating the attitude of the authorities in letting them off "scot free," an alarm was soon after rung in.

The fire department finally took action and refused to answer an alarm from a number of boxes, only on a second round of the signal and that is what it has again decided to do, having gone back to the old way again last year as there was a lull in the false alarm ringing. In the future the department will not respond to a first alarm from the following boxes: 35-37-42-44-45-46-47. Anyone ringing an alarm from one of these boxes will be obliged to wait until the alarm has struck fully around, or the number of the box four complete times, and then pull down the handle again in order to get the apparatus to the scene.

This will cause a delay of fully five minutes and may mean the destruction of property on the hill, but it seems to be the only course to be pursued. Putting the keys in the houses has been suggested but it means a still longer delay and greater danger.

The alarm Tuesday night was sounded from Box 42, Phillips street, opposite E. P. Chapin's. When the department reached the place, which meant a heart-breaking gallop for the horses up Main street, if they had been hurried, which they probably weren't as the firemen expected the alarm to be false, they found a barrel burning in front of the Latin commons and a crowd of students about.

Registrar Stearns appeared and ordered the boys to disperse. The next morning at Chapel exercises, the students were lectured on the subject but as the late Dr. Bancroft did as much as he was able to show the students what odium and possible bad results were likely to spring from this practice, it is not to be supposed that the lecture will have any effect. Stringent measures, such as the suppression of athletics for a time, would seem to be the only remedy for the trouble which appears to grow worse rather than better from year to year. It is safe to say that if anyone is caught in the act in Andover it will go hard with him. A lengthy term in prison is the least he can expect.

The boxes to be answered on the second alarm are located as follows:

35, Porter street, near Prof. Forbes'.
37, Salem street, opp. G. C. Foster's.
42, Phillips street, opp. E. P. Chapin's.
44, School street, junction of Locke.
45, Mansion house (Private).
46, Main street, cor. Morton.
47, Bartlet street, opp. public schools.

Entertained Friends.

James Schofield of North Main street, was the recipient of a pleasant evening's gathering in his honor on the occasion of his birthday recently. In all there were about 40 friends present to extend their best wishes for "many happy returns of the day."

The host received many gifts, useful and otherwise, among them a portrait of himself from his wife and family.

During the evening the company was entertained in the following manner: Songs and recitations, Arnold Schofield, Mrs. Hall, Asa Saxon, Mr. and Mrs. Longsworth, Miss Schofield and others. Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served during the evening. The Lawrence delegation who attended returned home on the 10.30 electric.

c Use of Meats.

The opinion has been greatly prevalent not only in the medical profession, but with the general public, that light meats are more easily digested, that they contain less deleterious constituents than the dark meats and that therefore they are better suited for the nourishment of sick people in general, and for those suffering from gout, uric acid diathesis and certain forms of kidney disease in particular. This supposition was based no doubt upon the statements which may be found in medical literature that the dark meats contain very much nitrogenous material and extractives than the light meats.

In Nos. 43, 44 and 45 of the Berliner klinische Wochenschrift Offer & Rosenquist publish the result of a series of careful analyses which do not agree with those of the older analyses. They show some of the fallacies of previous investigators and come to the conclusion that, while the white meats of poultry, fish, etc., do in certain cases contain less nitrogenous and extractive materials, the average amount does not differ greatly enough in the white and dark meats to make either preferable.

In concluding their article they state that if it is desirable to limit the amount of these deleterious food constituents we may accomplish the result much more certainly by limiting the amount of meat taken rather than by forbidding dark meats.

It is a well known fact that almost all the food materials contain a proportion of waste matter, and this is desirable; most foods also contain constituents which in large quantities are deleterious, but in smaller quantities may be beneficial. The extractives of meat, among the more important of which are lactic acid, butyric acid, acetic acid, etc., are by no means harmful, if taken in small quantities, as is ordinarily the case, and the same is true of the nitrogenous constituents.

There can be little doubt nowever, that these constituents do have a bad effect among certain people eat large quantities of meat and this evil is without question more prevalent in America than in almost any other part of the world. It arises from the fact that the meat supply is comparatively large with us, and the people are relatively prosperous and can afford to buy larger amounts of meat than people of most other nations.

Three heavy meat meals in a day is nothing unusual among certain classes of people, and on nearly all of the bills of fare of leading restaurants and hotels the list of meats is as great or greater than that of vegetables. We would not decry the use of a reasonable amount of meat, but believe that disorders arising from uric acid diathesis would be less frequent if we were accustomed to use the meats less freely.—Philadelphia Medical Record.

The excitement incident to traveling and change of food and water often brings on diarrhoea, and for this reason no one should leave home without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by all druggists.

COMMUNICATIONS

What Is Thought on One Side of the Question To Arise Next Monday.

Andover, Oct. 16, 1901.

Mr. Editor:— The selectmen of Andover have called a special town meeting for next Monday evening to see whether the town will vote to raise $6000 to be expended on South Main street.

Personally such a plan does not meet my approval as a citizen and an interested one, too; and among the many objections which might be raised to such a course of action on the part of the town I should like to call the attention of the voters to the three very emphatic ones, which to my mind are sufficient to delay if not prevent any such action.

First: That there is no good reason existing today for this large expenditure that did not exist last March. The calling of special meetings, where large sums of money are voted, is wrong in principle. In addition to this objection it will cost more to do the work now than it would have cost if the plan had been formulated last March, inasmuch as some of the work just being completed by the street railway people will have to be broken into and done over again.

Second: The plan for the storm sewer as proposed is unwise and uncalled for. The small pipe from School street to Locke street is unwise, as it will inevitably choke up.

The putting of any such pipe from Locke street to Rogers Brook (on Main street) is uncalled for, as the drainage of the water in this locality since long before the first white man came to Andover has been through the natural water course, which running westerly just north of Locke street, joins the Rogers Brook before it crosses School street. The location of this water course is determined on Main street, by the culvert which the town cleared out last Spring after one of the Ballard houses' cellars had been flooded. This water course took the surface water as far north as Punchard avenue, and drains several other cellars on the east side of Main street, as well as the one damaged. All the surface water from the hill does not run down Main street, as a portion runs west of the street crossing Locke street, between the club houses on the south side of the street. But none of it ever got north of the water course described.

It is as unwise as it is uncalled for to throw this additional burden on Rogers Brook between Main street and School street.

This brook is uncovered part of the way, but it is covered at Brook street, and south of it. The town has had heavy damages to pay only recently when the brook was choked up at Brook street, forcing the water down through the B. & M. station.

When a town is managed as is ours, it is much safer to keep the surface water in sight, whenever practicable.

Third: There is scant time to complete a job of this magnitude before the fall storms set in.

From a personal experience of 16 years, Main street has always been more or less muddy, (rather more.) We are promised a perfect driveway east of the railway tracks. Let us endure the mud on the west side a few months longer. At the March meeting if the town wishes to enter on a general plan of underground pipes for the surface water, let the matter be put into the hands of some competent man to formulate and report such a plan for the town to act upon later.

S.

Editor of Townsman:

As a taxpayer I wish to protest against being obliged to pay for "needed improvements" one year which are destroyed the next year and the taxpayers made to pay for their restoration the third year. The sewer on the east side of Main street was made only a short time ago and proved satisfactory. It is now destroyed and the much boasted macadam is washed over the sidewalk, as any one walking down Main street on Monday evening found to his cost. We are now asked to pay for a sewer on the west side, which will in turn be destroyed soon at the whim of some body of selectmen, and the taxpayers be asked to replace it to be ready for destruction when more "long needed improvements" are the fad. As one outraged taxpayer I wish to protest against waste of money and time and patience.

Andover at Council in Portland.

Prof. George F. Moore of the Seminary, attended the triennial council of the Congregational churches at Portland, Me., on Monday and spoke on the claim of the Seminaries upon the churches.

Prof. Moore said that few young men study for the ministry, that few ministers present the claims of the Christian ministry and that the young men of today are turned from the sacred vocation by troubles and discussions in the church.

Dr. Watterman insisted that after a Seminary presents to the men who aspire to be teachers a system of theology and he assents to it, he is bound to teach it. "A Seminary must be at least as honest as a peanut stand," he said, and was applauded.

Mr. Brooks of South Paris, Me., spoke of the old standards of faith, the mighty bulwarks of the church.

Dr. Moxom's address was an impassioned demand for the supremacy of the truth.

Rev. Levi Rogers of Port Chester, made a bright closing speech, full of witty hints. Pres. Tucker and other well known theologians took no part in the discussion.

President Day of the Seminary, was present on Wednesday.

FOR STYLISH NECK DRESSINGS

Go to Reid & Hughes's Gents' Furnishings Department. Our styles for the autumn and winter season of 1901 are selected to meet the requirements of that class of consumers who seek departures from what has been without conflicting with good taste.

They are conservative, artistic, dainty, yet smart. The fabrics are rich, the patterns are original and the finished product is the result usually worked out by forethought, knowledge and skill. We make a study of the necessites of our patrons in neckwear and a view of our stock stamps us at once as head quarters for the "correct fashion" in Gents' Neckwear.

KING'S DAUGHTERS

Convention Will be Held with Local Circle at South Church.

The Fifth Fall Convention of the Merrimack Valley League of the King's Daughters will meet with the Courteous Circle this year at the South church Friday afternoon and evening, Nov. 8.

The afternoon service, which begins at 2 o'clock, will be addressed by Mrs. Mary Lowe Dickenson of New York, general secretary of the order of the King's Daughters and ex-president of the National Council of Women, by Mrs. Hill of Boston, and Mrs. Ford of Lowell. Miss Born of Haverhill will sing.

Between the afternoon and evening service there will be a social hour and supper.

Rev. G. L. McNutt will be the evening speaker. Mr. McNutt is the minister who in order to get at the knowledge of workingmen, gave up preaching and has lived as a workingman among working men for the past three years, in five different states. The following reference to Mr. McNutt is taken from the Outlook: "There are few of us who do not occasionally 'dream dreams' of the benevolent things we would do if we had plenty of money; but as our philanthropy usually ends in a long drawn breath, it seems good to come across a man who pushes on in his deeds of good will to men, regardless of an empty pocket book.

In order to understand the condition and needs of the toilers, Rev. G. L. McNutt, once the pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Indianapolis and later of Oakland, Cal., resigned his ministerial work to live among the factory people of the Indiana gas belt region and to labor as they labor. As a ditch digger, glass blower, miner—in the two hundred different jobs he has held as a common laborer—Mr. McNutt has learned many things not found in his college curriculum—when he carried off the honors of his class in Wabash College, and made a good record at Princeton. The men he works with day by day have no idea of his real calling: he is simply one of them; yet the fact that he neither swears, nor drinks, is more wonderful to them, than to know that he is a college man, a prize orator, and a fine linguist."

Come and hear him! A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the afternoon and evening session, Friday Nov. 8.

Choosing the Gift.

Thanks to an improved taste evident in more than one social custom, the new century bride is the recepient of fewer eyesores than was her mother before her. This is due to a variety of causes. In the first place, not so many perfunctory wedding presents are made as formerly, only the immediate friends of the bride and groom deeming it their privilege nowadays to add to the young people's store of treasures.

In consequence there is little chance for ignorance as to their taste among her narrowed circle. She reasons, not without cause, that she has given presents and will do so again—it is only a fair exchange—and as her friends are bound to spend their money upon her, why not let her help them out in their selections. Tastes, too, have changed the country over, expositions and facilities for easy travel having made the country lass not a whit less fastidious about the character of the decorations and furnishings which are to become her lares and penates than the city-bred girl.

"Don't let them give me a silver tea set," was the seemingly ungrateful expression of a prospective bride in a little country village this summer. A Benares brass jardiniere was one of her dearest hopes. Her mother recalls her own fate every time she visits a certain closet where are stored the offerings of her bridal days. There are big ungainly silver fruit dishes, cake baskets and the hideous pickle casters, happily now forgotten, but which few brides of 20 years ago were fortunate enough to escape—and these things and more of their kind were all given to a couple, who, it was known, would not keep house for several years. In the old days every one who received a wedding invitation felt in duty bound to send a gift. The practice waned much earlier in the cities than in country places.

Because silver is as a rule marked when it is bought it has ceased to be so generally given as in past years, the monograms rendering it impossible to exchange it in case it is duplicated. Cut glass and china are perhaps the most popular gifts, and there is a growing inclination to give things of a useful nature, nearly every one appreciating the disadvantages of a lot of useless articles. Because cut glass has been so much given of late, the engraved, which has the beautiful quality of rock crystal, is somewhat more popular just now.

In glass, indeed, there is no end of possibilities fitting every kind of a purse. The tall, graceful, loving cups in crystal, slightly iridescent, with top edges and twisted glass handles, touched with gilt, are generally admired, and fit many places. The same design appears in Austrian glass in both crystal and green, engraved in gilt. Beautiful shapes and exquisite engravings are to be found among the vases, compotes, ice cream sets, bonbon dishes, jewel boxes and the like which are to be found in the Austrian glass, and all would be acceptable to a young housewife.

A new cracker and cheese compote, with a division in the middle, which was seen in one of the stores, was of the crystal, engraved with gold four-leaf clovers. Many new fancies in epergnes are shown this season, and in terrapin cups there is practically no end to the variety. For a bride who will begin on limited means terrapin cups would probably prove of as little use as to the Southerner who likes his terrapin in larger proportions. When in doubt and great perplexity of mind, there is always a standby—the cut glass lily-shaped vases, which are charming in almost any place and which fit in so well for special decorations. Plates, too, are a safe choice; as a housekeeper can hardly have too many. A single one of exclusive design, a plate, cup and saucer to match or a set of dinner, dessert or fruit plates, will never prove unwelcome, if chosen with judgment.

The daintily decorated china desk set are most appropriate as a bridal gift, especially if the couple will board. The handsome brass desk sets will probably prove of more lasting delight, the latter being a standard fashion. Because a wife esteems the gifts of her bridal days above many and more costly possessions, fads and articles of fleeting fashion are out of place as wedding gifts, for in a short time they will be numbered among the trumpery of the house. A beautiful fan, a piece of rare lace or embroidery suited to household purposes, small pieces of silver, bouillon and after dinner coffees—of these and many other things there can seldom be too many.

Obituary.

MRS. CHARLES (WHEELER) MAYER

The death of Mrs. Ruth (Wheeler) Mayer, wife of Charles Mayer, occurred at the Lawrence General hospital on Friday, Oct. 4th. Mrs. Mayer had gone there to submit to an operation but the physicians found her condition such that an operation was impossible.

She was born in Somersetshire, Eng., 54 years and 8 months ago. Coming to America when well along in life, she settled in Lawrence and there married William Freiss, by whom she had one son, Frank, now living in Lawrence.

After the death of her first husband, and about 24 years ago, she was married to Charles Mayer of Andover, and she lived here until her death. Deceased was a member of the Free church.

Her marriage with Mr. Mayer resulted in the birth of three children, who survive her. They are Charles jr., Alice and Albert.

The funeral was held from her late home, Monday afternoon, Oct. 7, Rev. F. A. Wilson officiating. A quartet from the Free church composed of Mrs. E. C. Pike, Mrs. J. Newton Cole, David May and William Coutts sang. There were numerous floral tributes. Burial was in the South church cemetery.

MRS. HARRIET FRANCES (WARDWELL) KEELAND.

Mrs. Hattie Frances Wardwell, wife of John E. Keeland, of Portsmouth, N. H., died at the Massachusetts General hospital, where she had been through an operation on Sunday, Oct. 13, aged 35 years, 7 months, 6 days. The deceased was born in Andover. She removed to Ballardvale with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wardwell, where she was married, on Oct. 23, '88, by Rev. Frederic Palmer, and later made her home in Portsmouth, N. H., where her husband was employed in the freight department of the B. & M. R. R.

The funeral was held at the Christ church, Andover, Wednesday, at 3.15 p. m. Rev. Frederic Palmer, of Andover, officiated, assisted by Rev. C. LeV. Bryne of Christ church, Portsmouth. A quartet from Lawrence sang "Hiding in Thee," "Asleep in Jesus," and "Sometime We'll Understand."

The pall bearers were Charles H. Pearson, Elmer Shattuck, William B. Cheever, and Edward E. Trefry.

The Ladies' Relief Corps, Rebeccas, and the Guild were represented. The great number of floral offerings showed the esteem in which she was held by her many friends. She leaves a husband, mother, sister and a large number of friends to mourn her loss.

Interment in Spring Grove cemetery, where a brief committal service was read.

Dodge, administrator; Isabel Clara Thom, Haverhill, Clinton R. Thom, administrator; Patrick F. Cronin, Haverhill, Maria Cronin, administratrix; Michael White, Haverhill, Katherine D. White, administratrix.

LAID ON THE TABLE.

At the regular meeting of the board of aldermen Monday evening, Mayor Leonard presided over the full board.

A hearing was first held in regard to the re-establishment of the grade of Reservoir terrace. Alderman Flynn explained that the east side is higher than the west. There was no opposition to the matter and the order for the re-establishment was adopted.

The petitions of the Boston & Northern streetr ailway company and the Lawrence &— Methuen street railway for further track privileges in Lawrence were presented and were promptly laid on the table. Alderman White explained that he opposed granting any further concessions to the road until the road granted better service. Alderman Pickles said he wanted Lawrence to have cheaper fare and better accommodations before he voted to give street railway companies further rights here.

FOR GOVERNOR

Josiah Quincy, Democratic Candidate, Addresses Rally at Lawrence.

There was a noticeable lack of warmth in the opening rally of the Democratic state campaign which was held in this city Tuesday night, but the four addresses were all interesting. They were listened to quietly by an audience which scarcely filled the body of the hall. Even the compliments paid to Lawrence Democracy by Hon. Charles S. Hamlin failed to arouse enthusiasm and the usually inspiring campaign speaker, Hon. John W. Coughlin of Fall River, had to put much more fire than usual into his attacks on the Republican party to call forth much applause. As expected, the speech of Hon. Josiah Quincy was an unimpassioned appeal in behalf of reforms championed by the Democratic party. He made no attempt at oratory, but presented an intelligent and carefully prepared argument in support of the principles in which he believes. In a scholarly address, Judge A. A. Putnam eulogized the late President McKinley, and then scored imperialism, socalled.

All the speakers referred courteously to their Republican opponents, no personalities being indulged in whatever.

That they were planning for the future rather than fighting for the present was inadvertently revealed by Mr. Hamlin when he said that whatever the result this year it would be a stepping stone to success in the future.

The local situation interested the party leaders greatly and all expressed satisfaction over the disruption among the Republicans of the 5th Essex senatorial district and boasted that the election of Amedee Cloutier was a certainty while the chances of securing all the representatives in both the upper and lower districts was never so bright.

Mayor Leonard sat on the stage a silent witness of the proceedings and it is well known that the slight to him in first asking him to preside and then denying him the privilege kept some of his friends away from the rally.

The party arrived at the north station about 7 o'clock and immediately repaired to the Franklin house where an informal reception was held and supper was served. Among the guests were the Hon. Josiah Quincy of Boston, candidate for governor; the Hon. John W. Coughlin of Fall River, candidate for lieutenant governor; Judge Arthur A. Putnam of Uxbridge, candidate for attorney-general; the Hon. Charles S. Hamlin of Boston; Stephen M. Walsh of Lynn, secretary of the state central committee; Thomas E. Dwyer of Wakefield, treasurer of the state central committee. The reception committee at the Franklin house, comprised Lawyer John M. Lynch, chairman of the Democratic city committee; William J. Graham, vice-chairman of the Democratic city committee; James P. McGurn, secretary of the Democratic city committee; Representative Amedee Cloutier, candidate for state senator; Representative J. J. Desmond candidate for re-election; A. L. Dame of Methuen, candidate for representative; Otto Mueller, candidate for representative; the Hon. A. B. Bruce, Representative Frank J. Stanley, candidate for re-election; and Simon B. Ryan, candidate for representative.

WAS REVOKED.

After a protracted hearing before the board of aldermen held Monday night the appointment of Special Police Officer David J. Huntress was revoked by Mayor Leonard and the aldermen sustained the mayor's action by a vote of four to one, Alderman Forbes alone opposing. Alderman White had conducted the case against the officer, hence he did not vote.

The charge against the officer was that he trifled with the rights of citizens, interfered with peaceable people to such an extent that he made an unusual number of arrests for a special officer. City Marshal O'Sullivan and a few other witnesses testified. The only specific instance in which the officer was said to have committed a grave misdemeanor was that testified to by a Mrs. Cowperthwaite, who claimed that he had slandered her without cause by saying that she kept a disorderly house. The officer explained that when he made the accusation he intended only to charge her with keeping a house which was disorderly in the sense that it was made noisy and a nuisance to neighbors by drunken men. No one who claimed to have been unwarrantably arrested appeared against Mr. Huntress and in his defence he showed that while he may have made a large number of arrests, all but one were followed by a conviction in court.

There was a throng of spectators present and the remarks of Alderman White frequently caused outbursts of laughter. He usually addressed Lawyer John P. Sweeney, counsel for Mr. Huntress familiarly as "my friend, the Colonel." Once he asked for time to think. It was granted.

Col. Sweeney's desire to have the hearing postponed a week, so as to have time to meet some specific charges was vigorously opposed by Alderman White. He declared that there were people present, whose characters had been besmirched by Huntress and he was not going to allow a cloud to hang over them any longer. He said he was going to act as their champion, and especially so for a poor widow who has no one to defend her and who came to the meeting from a sick bed to get justice. Mr. White said that a star witness against Mr. Huntress was not present and he thought that some undue influence must have been brought to bear.

When the hearing was declared open by the mayor, City Clerk Corcoran read the communication of City Marshal O'Sullivan which requested the mayor to revoke Mr. Huntress' appointment.

Col. John P. Sweeney then arose and stated that he appeared as counsel for Mr. Huntress. He said in part: "I wish to ask for a postponement for reasons I shall state. The marshal's letter accuses Mr. Huntress simply with trifling with the rights of people and interfering with peaceable citizens. I did not consider that charge specific enough and therefore I wrote to the marshal for specific charges. The marshal sent me a reply today, but by a mistake only a portion of the letter was enclosed in the envelope. You see therefore I am still in the dark as to the specific charge against my client. I simply know that persons named Cowperthwaite, Wyman and Foster have complaints against Huntress. Now I am prepared to meet the charges in connection with these persons, and I am willing to have the hearing go on if the charges are to be restricted to these, but I am not prepared to go on and meet other vague general charges. I want to know the names of the people who accuse Mr. Huntress of acting illegally, so that I can properly defend my client. There can't be a fair hearing unless Mr. Huntress is given a chance to procure witnesses, if he has any to meet the testimony of his accusers. My position is this, unless I can have specific charges, I want the hearing postponed until I can have this information."

Rev. Fr. McGowan, editor of "Our Lady of Good Counsel" magazine, has been spending a few days in this city.

Y. M. C. A. Prospects.

Last week the winter's work of the Young Men's Christian association began. Never in the history of the association has there been a more hopeful outlook for a successful season. During the summer months just passed the necessary repairs have been made in the building and everything has been put in first class order. The bowling alley has been put in shape, new balls and pins purchased, and is now ready for the wear and tear of winter usage.

The coming winter will see the work of the association enlarged and new branches undertaken, as there are to be three regular men at the association, devoting their whole time to the work.

As previously announced in the Telegram, Howard A. Edson, of Randolph, Vermont, formerly connected with this association has been secured to open up a branch of educational and junior work, and Richard H. Fox, who needs no introduction, will be the physical director, devoting his whole time to the work. Mr. Edson has assumed his duties.

The branch of work which will be under the supervision of Secretary Spence's new assistant, Mr. Edson, is a new departure in the Y. M. C. A. here. Neither the junior work nor the educational branches have been attempted to any extent, as the scope of the association would not permit it, but it has been a success in other places, and Secretary Spence, believing it would succeed here put forth strenuous efforts during the summer to raise the fund, and at length succeeded in having the start made.

The man secured for these new branches of work, comes well recommended as one well qualified for the work which he is to undertake. Mr. Edson is still a young man not yet 25 years of age. He has taken much interest in Y. M. C. A. work, having been engaged here for a short time, three years ago, in the capacity of assistant secretary. Illness cause him to leave at that time and since then he has been a teacher in the Vermont academy at Saxon's River Vermont.

The Junior department will be made up of boys between the ages of 11 and 15. The full details of the management will not be determined till Mr. Edson has become acquainted with the field, as this work is something new in this locality. The membership will be limited, and those belonging to the department will have priveleges of socials and entertainments. "Junior Night" will be held one night each week in Russell hall when some entertainment will be given. Tuesday afternoon October eight, a reception of the Juniors will be held when they will meet with Mr. Spence.

The work along educational lines will also begin later in the month under Mr. Edson's direction. This will probably consist of classes in elementary subjects, and possibly a literary club. A special circular on the subject will be issued about the middle of the month.

The directors of the Y. M. C. A. feel fortunate in having secured Richard H Fox as physical director for the ensuing year. Mr. Fox needs no introduction to those interested in the gymnasium work, as he has acted in the capacity of director for ten or 11 years passed. He has not previously, however, devoted his whole time to the work which he will do this year.

Mr. Fox is a local man, whose abilities are well known. He is 47 years of age, married and has five children. He has been prominent in the affairs of the city, having been president of the city council for two years.

New Chapel Opened.

The dedicatory services were held at the new Wood Memorial chapel in Carletonville Tuesday night. The auditorium was filled to overflowing. The exercises of dedication which were of a most interesting nature was much appreciated by the large attendance. The full choir rendered excellent music for the occasion. The report of the building committee which was presented by James I. Milliken was exceedingly interesting and showed the difficulties encountered in getting the church under way. With an appropriate speech E. A. Thissel presented the keys of the chapel to the Massachusetts association of Free Baptist churches and from the association they were entrusted to the Rev. W. J. Twort, pastor of the new church by Rev. C. S. Frost, president of the association. Rev. Mr. Twort responded in a pleasing manner to the speech of Mr. Frost.

The Rev. A. E. Wilson of Lowell spoke ably on "The Value of the Church to the Community," in which he outlined the work of the church on the lines of charity, religion and other works. Strong and interesting addreses were made by the Rev. B. M. Osgood of Cambridge and Rev. H. Lockhart, of Chelsea. Words of greeting from the pastors of several of the city churches were listened to by the audience.

The chapel has been built from a fund, bequeathed by Mrs. Mary A. Wood to the Massachusetts Association of Free Baptist churches, for the purpose of building a Free Baptist church in South Lawrence, and forms part of a plan for a larger building when the needs of the community demand it.

The chapel is beautifully situated on the corner lot of Belknap and Coolidge streets and is surrounded by a spacious lawn. The building is of wood and is finished in an elaborate manner on the exterior. Last night from the outside the spectacle was a charming one, the blaze of light from the inside showing through the stained panels of fancy glass with a most pleasing taste. Above the main entrance is the word "Welcome" worked with fancy glass. The interior is finished in oak. A spacious vestibule surrounds the lower auditorium. The ladies' parlor is elaborately furnished. The larger auditorium is fitted with pews which afford a seating capacity of 800. Decorations of potted plants and flowers and autumn leaves abounded and combined with the generous light made a very pleasing scene.

BROKEN PROMISES

Frederick will Run on Nomination Papers in Spite of Promise to Support Regular Nominee.

Saturday evening the Republicans of Methuen who are supporting the nomination of George G. Frederick for senator from the Fifth Essex district, in opposition to the regular nominee of the Republican party, Archie N. Frost, met in the Odd Fellows hall of that town to hear the report of the committee which was appointed at the meeting Monday night. There was a good attendance, and although there was nothing of a sensational nature transpired, all who took part in the discussion were of the opinion that the course that the Methuen Republicans were pursuing was the only one they could pursue. A number were present who had previously been supposed not to be in favor of the movement of the town Republicans.

The meeting was presided over by the chairman, Frank Remick. Mr. Remick, on behalf of the committee appointed at the meeting Monday night, stated that at the request of the city committee of Lawrence the committee went to Lawrence Wednesday night to see whether anything could be done to bring about a harmony in the Republican ranks. At that meeting the city committee passed a vote to oppose a nominee from the city of Lawrence in the years 1903, 1904 and 1905. It had been stated to him as he understood it that if evidence were produced that Mr. Frost had made any promise to Mr. Frederick, to the effect that he would support him for the nomination this year, he would withdraw. The evidence was produced, but then it was stated that this referred to the time prior to the nomination.

Mr. Remick stated that he gave the meeting to understand that the only thing Methuen would accept as a conciliatory measure would be the withdrawal of Frost from the contest. He advised naming Frederick on nomination papers, and rejecting all propositions from Lawrence parties short of Frost's withdrawal.

John T. Mannifield, Alfred Newsholme, George A. Smith, W. L. S. Gilcreast, Nathan Bailey, J. S. Tapley and Judge Rogers also spoke, all of them being in favor of running. Mr. Frederick on nomination papers.

Judge Rogers stated that he expected to see Mr. Frost present as he had left word with Mr. Sargent of the city committee, that the only thing left for Mr. Frost to do was to appear at the meeting and give an explanation of his actions. As he was not present he thought under the circumstances that Methuen was pursuing the right course. He called it a fight between Mr. Frost and the Methuen Republicans.

It was unanimously voted that there should be no agreement with Lawrence this year and that Mr. Frederick should run on nomination papers. The papers will be taken to Boston by a messenger Thursday next and filed. The meeting then adjourned, subject to the call by the committee appointed Monday. This committee consisting of Frank Remick, John C. Sanborn, Harry E. Brown, Alfred Sagar, Robert Driver, George A. Taylor, George A. Smith, Leroy D. Howard, S. W. Young, Charles Merrill and Alfred Newsholme will have charge of the independent campaign.

At Power Station.

Extensive improvements are being made at the power station of the Boston and Northern Street Railway company situated on Merrimack street. Some alterations will be made and a great excavation is in progress.

A Mackintosh and Seymore engine of 250 horse power has been taken out and a new engine built by Watts and Campbell company of Newark, N. J., is to be installed in its place. This new engine is of 750 horse power, capable of doing 900 on a heavy load. It is cross compound to be directly connected through a general electric continuous current generator of 550 volts and 900 amperes capacity, making 100 revolutions a minute.

The generaters now in use at the station make 900 and one makes 350 revolutions a minute, the reduction on the machine to 100 turns a minute can be made because of the greater diameter of the commutator.

The dynamo being directly connected to the engine does away with the use of large belts which slip more or less and there is also no extra friction to be contended with. There is also to be a quicker shut-off of steam, thus allowing a greater expansion of steam in the cylinders. These improvements besides others which are not mentioned are of great advantage, making a noticeable difference in the coal pile.

The engine is to be connected to a Dean Horizontal independent condenser, the size of cylinder being 18 by 18 by 12 inches.

The present two-switch boards which are up to date will be altered and everything placed on one board. The partitions between the three engine rooms are to be taken down, making one large engine room. These great improvements will increase the capacity of the plant 500 horse power.

The work has been laid out by Chief Engineer E. O. Goodridge of Lowell. Everything is expected to be completed by Dec. 1st, the foundation is to be done by the 16th of this month.

The foundation is being constructed by Peabody of Lawrence. The contract for piping has not been let as yet. The foundation reaches to the depth of 13 feet, two feet of which are solid concrete and 11 feet of brick, about 100,000 brick being used in the work.

This large engine is to be in charge of two former North Andover boys, now engineers at the power station. They are Frank McQuestion and Leslie Brown.

The board of railroad commissioners have granted the citizens of this town on their petition, a hearing in regard to better accommodations from the Boston and Northern street railroad. The hearing is to be held at the office of the board in Boston, Wednesday, Oct. 23 It will be remembered that at the time it was proposed to grant the then L., L. & H. St. Ry. Co. a franchise for double tracks on Broadway, hearings were held in the town hall in regard to the matter, and a demand was made upon the company for better accommodations. This demand was almost utterly ignored, with the result that the citizens petfioned the railroad commissioners for a hearing in the matter. It is on this petition that the hearing has been granted.

A new schedule of mails has been posted at the local postal station. It is as follows:

Blood.

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor.

There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high, we are being refreshed, bone muscle and brain, in body and mind, with continual flow of rich blood.

This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood, is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It sets the whole body going again—man woman and child.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Miss Bertha Douglas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Douglas observed her eleventh birthday at her home on Broadway Saturday by entertaining a number of her young friends at a party. Fourteen were present, and a most enjoyable time spent. Games were enjoyed and refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake and other edibles were served. Miss Douglas received many pretty presents from her friends. Those present included: Marion Silloway, Francis Clark, Marion Crosby, Florence Coburn, Edith George, Helen Emmons, Sadie Mills, Clarence Clark, Philip Crosby, Philip Johnson, Eddie Douglas, Charles Robinson and Wilbur Robie.

A TYPICAL SOUTH AFRICAN STORE.

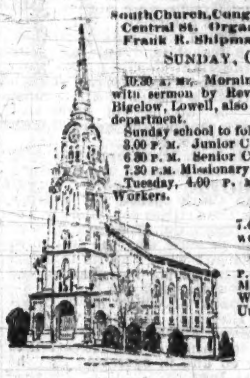

O. R. Larson of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railroad station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by all druggists.

EVENING SCHOOLS OPEN.

The Methuen evening schools opened in high school rooms Wednesday night There was a good attendance for the first night, between 50 and 60 being present. The school was called to order by Superintendent of Schools A. E. White, who made a brief address, pointing out that they had assembled not for the purpose of play, but for work. He pointed out that good attendance, good attention and good application were necessary to a successful evening school. Kimball G. Colby and C. H. Rogers of the school board also spoke. The school was then turned over to the charge of Principal Nathan Gates, who made a few remarks. He pointed out that he could do nothing without the co-operation of the pupils, but that if each did his part he thought that they would succeed in making the school a success. It is expected that the membership of the school will increase to fully the number that attended last year.

An artist who has had much experience in figure painting and also in portrait painting, affirms that clear white worn by a thin person or one of sharp features tends to accentuate all the lines of the face and bring out all the thinness of the countenance. Cream white does not throw this sharp, crude light up to the face. Of course, there is a clean, dainty look which a clear white dress gives to a person, but for a true artistic effect one wants to indulge in cream white only. Children and young girls can often wear this clear white with the most charming results, however.

A Franchise.

A hearing was held before the North Andover selectmen in the town hall Wednesday evening. Selectmen Clark, Osgood, and Greene were present. Mr. Clarke acted as chairman. Col. Woodward represented the company petitioning for the franchise. This company asks for the right to lay tracks from Wilson's corner to the Andover line on Andover street, a matter of a few hundred feet. A number of interested persons were present and quite a heated discussion took place.

Lawyer J. P. S. Mahoney represented a number of the property owners along Railroad street.

Selectman Clark opened the meeting by reading the articles contained in the petition. Then Col. Woodward was called upon to state why the franchise was desired and what was its intended benefit to the people in general, he stated the case as follows:

The company of which he is president, the Haverhill and Andover company received a franchise to build a road between Andover and Haverhill to be completed and in operation by the first of last June.

The company now wishes to build a line from Andover square to North Andover centre connecting the two towns and making a loop line through Lawrence. This Col. Woodward thought would be of great benefit and accommodation to the townspeople in general. Col. Woodward was forced to admit under close fire that his company was nothing more than one of the divisions of the Massachusetts General Electric company of which the Boston & Northern is but another division and that the proposed line would come under the Boston & Northern division were it built. Col. Woodward admitted also that he was one of the directors in Massachusetts General Electric.

A great accommodation to a few people to have the loop line built; but that it was of more importance to the citizens in general that the line be constructed between Andover and Haverhill first.

Work has been commenced on Railroad street but that street is in a wretched condition at present. At the time of the commencement of work on Railroad street, no bond was filed with the selectmen as was agreed upon.

At the time of its building there was some trouble about making connections with the Reading line on Main street in Andover but all these objections have been overcome. It is not exactly reasonable to the townspeople that the same corporation will conduct parallel lines, thus dividing the traffic between two routes which would cost twice as much to maintain.

The general feeling seemed to be that if the Massachusetts General Electric are given that little connecting that it desires, it should agree to build the Andover and Haverhill road first and furnish better conveyance and to have the cars run on more regular time. No action was taken by the selectmen.

BAND CONCERT.

The Mechanics Brass band gave a superb concert on the stand in Jefferson square, Friday evening. This style of performance places them in the front rank, and among the first-class bands of Essex county.

The concert was listened to by a large crowd from town and also by many visitors from Andover, Lawrence and Methuen. The program was as follows;

The Girls' basket ball team of J. H. S. will not play the team at Methuen H. S. Saturday, as the Methuen team has postponed the game until a week from Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Leitch of Franklin Falls N. H., are visiting at the residence of Mr Benjamin Hayes on Cleveland street. Mr. Leitch sails for England this week.

Notice is asked to be given to the members of Rescue lodge that those going to Ballardvale Monday evening to visit the lodge in that place, are desired to be at the Sutton street station to take the 6.55 train for Ballardvale.

The open meeting of the Rescue lodge of Good Templars takes place next Friday. Rev. Nathan Bailey of First Baptist church of Methuen will speak. An entertainment will be given and refreshments will be served. All over 15 years of age are cordially invited to attend.

The county commissioners were in town Tuesday morning at the request of the selectmen and citizens. A hearing was given in the town hall at nine o'clock relative to the relocation of the boundaries of Railroad street. Selectmen Clark, Green and Osgood together with Henry Tongue and John Long explained the existing conditions after which the commissioners inspected Railroad street from Main street to the Andover line and then adjourned to the selectmen's office. Plans and survey will be produced at a future hearing of which the parties interested will receive due notice.

The following officers were elected: President, Miss M. A. Berry; vice president, Miss Anna M. Tucker; secretary and treasurer, Miss Dollie M. Farnum; directors, Miss Hannah C. Carleton, Mrs. B. H. Farnum, Miss Ida A. Atkins with officers ex-officio.

The program was as follows:

Essay, A Few Lessons from History, Written by Miss C. F. Carleton; Read by Miss D. M. Farnum.
Song, Mrs. Arthur Fulton
Reading of poem, "Autumn," Mrs. George H. Goodhue
Reading from selection "Three Men in a Boat," Anna M. Tucker
Piano solo, Mrs. Fulton

The next meeting will be held with Miss Ida A. Atkins. Subject for quotations, "Harvest."

Obituary.

PATRICK HALEY.

The funeral services over the remains of Patrick Healey took place at nine o'clock Saturday morning from St. Michael's church. De Profundis at the offertory was rendered by Maurice Mahoney of Lawrence. After the Libera' William Smith rendered Calvary in a very excellent manner.

The bearers were Thomas Murphy, Patrick Herbert, Dennis Callahan, William J. Toohey, James Dooley and Thomas Griffin.

The remains rested in a black broadcloth casket with silver trimmings. The plate bore the inscription:

Patrick Healey,
March 10, 1843—October 10, 1901.

Many flowers covered the casket, expressing the great esteem in which he was held by relatives, teachers, selectmen and friends. The flowers were as follows: Pillow, inscribed "Our Father" from family; ivy wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Gafney; bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. James Dooley; bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ryan; bouquet, Mrs. Jas. Farrell; sheaf of wheat, Miss Mary Taylor; spray of pink roses, Mrs. Geo. Gould; spray of white roses, teachers of Johnson High school; spray of white roses, Miss Alice Rea; ivy wreath selectmen of North Andover; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McKinnon, spray of pink and white pinks, Miss Helen Joselyn.

Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery Lawrence.

Flags on all the public buildings were at half mast mourning the death of one who will be greatly missed by many of the townspeople.

The death of Mr. Healey takes from our midst one of our oldest citizens and a trusty public servant and to the graduates and undergraduates of the High school it will hardly seem like high school without his presence, so closely connected was he to us in friendship's bonds.

Mr. Healey was born March 10, 1843 in New Castle, county of Galoway in Ireland. He came to this country on March 12, 1866, coming directly to No Andover where he worked for the Osgood's for a year after his arrival.

He enlisted as a private soldier in the United States regular army on April 8th, 1867. He was stationed at Fort Stevenson in the West where he served as lieutenant and orderly in his company, Co. G, 22nd infantry. He was in many engagements with the Indians who were so unruly about that time. Serving faithfully for three years he received an honorable discharge on May 17th, 1870. After receiving his discharge he returned to North Andover where he was married September 22, 1871 to Miss Margaret Fox, a woman who has made him a beloved and loving wife.

On returning from the West he was employed by Horace Stevens and later on he accepted the position in Stevens mills where he stayed 11 years. He was next employed in the Davis & Furber foundry for eight years. His last position was as janitor of the Johnson High school building where he has been for the last sixteen years. It was in this position that the people of the town knew him and learned to love and respect his sterling qualities.

Mr. Healey was a member of the Old Cochichewick H. F. E. Co. in which he served as steward for many years.

Last but not least he leaves a much loved and devoted family, a wife, two daughters, Miss Etta F. Healey and Mrs. Sylvester Gafney, and two sons, Patrick J. and John X., all of this town.

HARVEST CONCERT.

Sunday school rally day was fittingly observed by the Methodist church Sunday. An excellent harvest concert was given in the evening under the direction of Superintendent E. S. Edmunds. The program was successfully carried out, Rev. E. E. Ayers spoke to the boys and girls and older people also on the advantage of a good education. He illustrated his points by sketching the lives of the following men some of whom became presidents of the United States. He spoke of their start in life being of the poorest and of their taking advantage of every opportunity. He mentioned the principal traits in the lives of James A. Garfield, Abraham Lincoln, Booker T. Washington, Mr. Cunard after whom the great Cunard line was named, and last of Major McKinley our late president.

The program:

Organ voluntary,	Miss Piddington
Singing,	School
Scripture reading,	Superintendent
Prayer,	Rev. E. E. Ayers
Anthem,	Choir
Recitation,	Margaret Littlefield
Recitation,	Jessie Wilcox

Benediction,	Rev. E. E. Ayers

The decorations consisting of vegetables, fruit and greenery and flowers were very nicely arranged, expressing the decorative ability of the committee in charge.

MUSICALE GIVEN.

A very enjoyable time was had by those who attended the musicale given by Mr. and Mrs. William Knowles at their home on Union street, Wednesday evening. The occasion was kept a secret as far as possible and the friends who gathered were much surprised to find that it was Mrs. Knowles' birthday. On leaving they wished her many returns of the day. A very pleasant evening was spent with music and other diversions. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The program carried out was as follows: Holy City, Faith Redman; Harmonious Blacksmith, Miss Edith Knowles; song, duet, Mrs. Knowles and Richard Redman; solo, "Her Love is Just the Same," Henry Knowles; "Storm," Mr. Redman; duet Miss Edith Knowles and Mr. Redman; song, "Anchored," Herbert Hall; duet vocal, Mrs. Sewell; solo, Mr. Sewell; piano solo, Harry Wilkinson; piano solo, "Marcia," Mr. Redman; piano solo, May Hardy; song, "When She Was Sweet Sixteen," and "When the Harvest Days Are Over, Jessie Dear;" song, "Conquered," Herbert Hall; song, "Asleep in the Deep," Henry Knowles; piano solo, Harry Wilkinson; song, "The Harp That Once Through Tara's Hall," male quartet; finaf, "Auld Lang Syne."

Many friends from Lawrence and Methuen and town were present among whom were the talented persons who took part in entertaining.

EXCELLENT GAME.

The large crowd which gathered on the tavern lot Saturday afternoon to witness the much talked of game between the Blue Stockings and Mohawks two local elevens, were not disappointed. The game commenced shortly after three o'clock and it was no time before the two teams were playing one of the hardest and cleanest games of the season. But the supremacy of Blues was soon shown by their ability to buck the line for long games and to circle their opponents' ends for long gains, with an interference almost impregnable. The Mohawks played a clean game with much individual work but their team work was weak, men being nailed several times for great losses before they could get their plays started.

The game started by Smith kicking the ball to one of the Mohawks who was dropped in his tracks. The Mohawks tarted in with fierce end plays but did not last long and were held for downs. Then the Blues took the ball and by straight football pushed the ball over for five points after 11 minutes of play.

In the second half Coppinger kicked off to McQueston who run the ball in for a number of yards before being downed. Another touchdown was added to the five points of the first half. At no time was the Blue Stockings goal in danger. The Mohawks played mostly a kicking game but Coppinger and Taylor were sent around the ends for short gains several times.

The officials of the game were Ernest Johnson, umpire, Cornelius Mahoney, referee; Ernest Tracey and John Bolton linesmen. Touchdowns made by Clements and Glaney; length of halves two 20 minutes; score, 10 to 0 in favor of Bluestockings. Line up: Blue Stockings: H. Greenwood, centre; F. Coppinger, left guard; J. Bolton, left tackle; C. I. Smith, left end; W. Lambert, right guard; A. Kershaw, right tackle; S. Hargreaves, right end; H McQueston, quarterback; H. Geaney, right half back; and Captain B. Kelley, left half back; R. Clements, full back. Mohawks: T. Welsh, centre; J. Welch, left guard; J. Reardon, left tackle; L. Dimmery, left end; F. Glie, right guard; D. Donovan, right tackle and captain; J. Glie, right end; G. Lamb, quarterback; J Taylor, right half back; Joseph Walsh, left half back; M. Coppinger, full back.

A picked eleven which might have been understood by some people as being the Blue Stockings played a tie game with the Methuen High school on the latter's gridiron in Methuen Wednesday afternoon. The local team as a matter of fact went to Methuen too over confident of winning, but they themselves were unable to score. The improvement that the Methuen boys showed over the game with the Johnson High in town a few weeks ago is wonderful. Their team work is quite up to the mark and the ability of their backs to hurdle the line is a very effective play, and gained many a yard for Methuen. If it had not been for the frequent fumbles on both sides there would have been other numbers to the score than 0 to 0. The officials, Dr. Robinson referee and timekeeper; Cleon Merser and Stephen Nelson, linesmen; halves 20 and 15 minutes. The lineup of the home team was as follows: Greenwood c, Carney r g, Lambert l g, Kirk l t, Kelley r t, Flanders l e, Hargreaves r e, Geaney q b, Smith r h b, Clements l h b, Johnson f b.
